

Travelling Songsters Fight Snow, Ptomaine

by Barbara Stuart

• BLIZZARDS AND PTOMAININE poisoning greeted the University Troubadours while the rest of the school enjoyed the Christmas holidays at home.

After leaving on December 18, the singing group traveled 8,077 miles in 17 days, giving 34 shows at Air Force bases in Greenland, Labrador, Newfoundland and Baffin Island.

The first excitement of the trip occurred when all but five of the group got ptomaine poisoning from eating roast beef sandwiches served on the plane. Then, four hours out of Pepperrell, Greenland, where the first shows were given, an engine conked out. The next stop had to be Goose Bay, Labrador, instead of Marsarsuak, Greenland.

Bags Crumble

After shows at the base, where the 25 below zero temperature made all the garment bags crumble, the troupe went on to Narssarsuak in another plane. There they were stranded for four and a half days because of snow and high winds. But no one seemed to mind too much since Christmas was celebrated by a party with Arleigh Greene as Santa Claus.

Next stop was Sondrestrom, Greenland, where the Air Force added to the holiday spirit with gifts of perfume for the girls and manicure sets for the male members.

Six shows in two days were scheduled for Thule, Greenland, but a three phase wind—over 75 miles an hour—came up restricting everyone to quarters. The boys put in a pretty bad day with C-rations their only food. "We were more fortunate," said Ethel Johnson, "because we were in the hospital with a dining hall."

Allows Drinking Water

During the restriction, only water for drinking was allowed, "so the laundry sort of piled up," Ethel added. The troupe blamed the weather on the fact that they were only 825 miles from the North Pole at the time.

Frobisher Base on Baffin Island with a 33 below temperature was next on the list. While the concert was given, the plane engines had to be kept running. "We would have been there till May, otherwise," said Sally Parker, "because they couldn't have warmed up the engines."

Last stop before home was Harman Field, Newfoundland, where the troupe sang and were entertained by the American Consul, Moores, and Colonel Achenbach, head of personnel services in the North East Air Command. "We had a bang-up New Year's Eve party, too," Dot Miller added.

Arrived Late

Arriving back in Washington a day late on January 3, the group gave up the parkas which they couldn't lift with one hand and the foot long "bunny boots" they had worn for over 2 weeks.

Accompanied by their director, Dr. Robert Howe Harmon and Mrs. Harmon, who played the piano for the group, the Troubadours also had Captain James J. Krafjick as projects officer for the second year.

The troupe members agreed that home looked good, and they "could never forget it"—the trip, that is.

IFC Adopts 1st Homeless War Orphan

• INTERFRATERNITY Fraternity Council announced last week that it has adopted a war orphan through an international service organization sponsored by the United States.

The adoption is financial, of course, but the Council can pick the nationality, age and sex of the child. The initial payment has been made and the council is now waiting to receive case histories of children who were left parentless because of war. After making its choice, the Council will inform officials of the war orphan plan of its decision.

The Council made arrangements to provide for the welfare and health of a child through the War Orphan Adoption Plan which is registered with the Advisory Committee on Voluntary Aid of the United States Government. The plan is a non-profit, non-political and non-sectarian relief organization.

It has given help to more than 72,000 children in sixteen years of service. Over 10,000 children representing nineteen nationalities are under the organization's care. The plan is the largest child service in the world giving individual help and toward rehabilitation, with headquarters in eight countries and the main office in New York.

Many organizations that adopt war orphans develop a personalized approach. They receive a picture of the orphan and learn of his birthday. They are able to write them letters and do special things on Christmas, so that the orphan has a feeling that these adopted parents really do have an interest in him.

Paul Jennings, IFC president, claims that "this is a step in the right direction to better emphasize one of the ideals of the IFC service."

Square Dancers Stomp Thursday; First '54 Fling

• THE FIRST SQUARE dance of 1954 will be held on Thursday at 8:30 in Building J. Tom Pence, who recently returned from a tour of the Northeast Air Command with the Traveling Troubadours, will call the figures. The dancers will be accompanied by the familiar music of the Noveleer.

Milicia Hasalova and Charles Higginson, Square Dance Managers, will brief newcomers on the basic steps in square dance from 8:00 to 8:30 p.m.

Cadets Honored

The Pershing Rifles, social fraternity of the AFROTC cadets, will be honored as special guests.

The square dance will be the second dance held at the University this school year. The "Resolution Rendezvous," a social dance sponsored by AFROTC sponsors and Law School, was given Jan. 8. Hostesses for the dance were members of Mortarboard and Chi Omega sorority.

British Ballad Singer Chooses Cherry Tree Queen Finalists; Annual Subscriptions on Sale

• CAROL FULLER HINRICH, Barbara Holly and Ann Willey were chosen as finalists in the Cherry Tree Queen competition.

The winner will be announced by Carlene Parker and Pete Renz, co-editors of the Cherry Tree, at the annual Panhellenic Sing on March 24.

Alan Dean, popular English ballad singer currently appearing at the Casino Royal, chose the finalists at a tea given in honor of the ten candidates at the Sigma Chi fraternity house on January 8 from 3 to 5 p.m. Approximately thirty-five guests, including Cherry Tree staff members and candidates for the 1954 Queen attended the tea.

Recording Artist Judges

Mr. Dean, who has been in show business since his early teens and is primarily a night-club entertainer and recording artist, judged the co-eds on the basis of outstanding personal appearance.

He chose the three finalists from representatives of nine social sororities on campus and Strong Hall. The girls were: Barbara Connelly, DG; Carol Dunn, KAT; Jayne Harper, KKG; Carol Fuller Hinrichs, PiPhi; Barbara Holly, Sigma Kappa; Marilyn Jones, Strong Hall; Sandra Kitchen, ADPi; Dorothy Leonard, KD; Jacqueline May, DZ; and Ann Willey, Chi O.

The Cherry Tree has been represented in past years by Jacqueline Nalley, 1952 and Ruth Sanderson, 1953.

Subscriptions on Sale

Subscriptions for the 1954 year-book are on sale in the Student Union, first floor, Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. The price of the book is five dollars. However, if 550 copies of the Cherry Tree have not been sold by February 19, the price must be raised to six dollars per copy to meet the cost of printing the book.

Enthusiastic editors Parker and Renz are looking forward to the distribution of the Cherry Tree, which will come out sometime this spring.

Engineering Students Hear Many Experts

• THE AMERICAN SOCIETY of Mechanical Engineers held a joint meeting with the Institute of Radio Engineers and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers last Wednesday night.

The speaker for the evening was Ralph Bennett, technical director of the Naval Ordnance Lab. His talk, which Dean Mason described as "much wisdom expounded," was on "The Professional Development of the Graduate Engineer."

Engineers Should Specialize

The main point of Mr. Bennett's talk was that the recently graduated engineer does not yet know whether he will continue to specialize or enter the field of management. Therefore, he should continue to build himself toward his profession. "The thing that most engineers overlook, especially students," says Mr. Bennett, "is that they will have to work with people as well as things. The engineer must begin while still in college to broaden his viewpoint."

After Mr. Bennett's extremely informative talk, Mr. Robert Beatty of the National Bureau of Standards spoke on the new radio wave propagation laboratory being built at Boulder, Colorado. He showed several interesting slides and mentioned the openings for employment there.

Engineers Hear Rice

Last Wednesday night, The American Society of Civil Engineers heard a talk on "The Use of Portland Cement" by George Rice assisted by his man Friday, William Sunday.

Mr. Rice, of the Portland Cement Association, discussed thin-shelled hangers with extremely long cantilever sections. One which he mentioned was a stadium with a one foot thick concrete cantilever and a 300-foot span.

Last Friday night Theta Tau held a stag smoker for prospective pledges at a member's recently completed recreation room.

Chessmen Beat Terps and GU

• SPARKED BY the first board play of Hans Berliner, the University Chess Club showed real strength in defeating Maryland University by the score of 10½ to ½. Berliner enlivened the match by announcing mate in eleven moves. Winners for the University include Berliner, Pearce, Fax, Parry, Thompson, Levey, Feldman, Russell, and Duckworth.

Earlier this semester the University Club had defeated Georgetown 6½ to 1½ and tied Maryland 5 to 5.

Although off to a late start this year the club has been given good support in recent weeks. Charlie Levey recently became president of the club.

This year the Chess Club has been given notable support by members of the Psychology Department and has used the basement of the Department's building for its matches.

On Tuesday and Friday afternoons the members of the Chess Club meet and play chess on the fourth floor of the Student Union and all persons interested in chess are welcome to join them.

SK and SAE Fete Orphans

• SIGMA KAPPA AND Sigma Alpha Epsilon became the proud foster parents of twelve little orphans last Saturday, by escorting the tykes to Clare Tree Major's Childrens Playhouse presentation of "Beauty and the Beast" at Lisner Auditorium.

Sigma Kappa represented by Eleanor Ready, Ida Junco, Carol Caswell, Pat Homer, Carol McDermott and Karen Floyd took three boys and three girls from the Merriweather Home. The SAE's secured their children from the Friendship House. John Buckingham, Marty Barley, Paul Jennings, Jerry Lee Slaughter, Ed Semonian and Mike Vlahos represented SAE.

All concerned enjoyed the well-staged and well-presented puppet version of "Beauty and the Beast." The next effort of Miss Tree Major's troupe will be "Alice in

Editorials

Incomplete Picture

• A RED-HOT COLONIAL quintet has tricked the Student Body! It is deplorable to note that the basketball team has destroyed a venerable University institution—APATHY!

This apathy, which has become so much a part of our campus life, has turned to ashes in the fire of an undefeated team. School spirit, which was once thought dead, has been resuscitated. This spirit was evident at the Georgetown game. It is a fitting reward for the nation's twelfth ranking team to be received in this manner.

However, this picture is marred by several displeasing features. The most obvious problem confronting the students is the inadequate seating arrangements. The rule of the day seems to be "first come, first served," while those possessing Booster tickets have no priority. Surely the faithful few who belong to Boosters should receive more consideration.

With school enthusiasm increased, it is lamentable that no guidance is offered. Our cheerleaders lack everything but number. To quote from an old adage, "too many cooks spoil the broth." The quality might increase, if the quantity were decreased.

With a few touch-ups, the desired picture of school support would be on the road to completion.

Scratch Your Back?

• PENCILS ARE MADE to be written with. Not a radical thought, true, but we feel it is necessary to remind the University of the true purpose of pencils, because, under the present circumstances, pencils cannot be used to write with at the University, if their points happen to be broken.

The average, red-blooded student needs to sharpen his pencil at least once daily. And what is the school doing to alleviate the student's misery, as he gazes tearfully at his broken point stub, one minute before class begins?

A grand total of six-odd pencil sharpeners are provided, distributed at strategic points throughout the school, strategic meaning they can't be reached too easily by the students, and it is therefore much easier to clean them every day.

Also, some of them, notably the one on the first floor of Government Building, are cagily mutilated: the handle is missing.

If more pencil sharpeners are not provided soon, the true purpose of pencils will be lost on this campus. Students will wear pencils proudly as a personal ornament, behind their ears, or better, in their lapels; students will scratch their backs with them. But the art of pencil-writing will be lost.

Down Tin Pan Alley

by Ed Jaffee

• S'FUNNY THE WAY a good song often hangs around Tin Pan Alley for weeks and even months before catching the public's fancy. Just such a melody is Doris Day's My Secret Love, from her film vehicle, Calamity Jane.

My Secret Love, as you probably all know by now, is a very pretty slow ballad and seems ready to take its place alongside such popular "standards" as Yesterday and My Silent Love, two others of the same type.

There seems to be a lack of good songs, both slow and fast, this winter. The best of a sparse selection of slow ballads is still Stranger in Paradise, with the latest recording being waxed by Vic Damone. It's a good one, too. And right behind "the stranger" is the sales record-smashing Oh, My Papa, recorded by a couple of boys named Eddie. The Eddie Calvert version, although not so big a seller as the Eddie Fisher record, seems to this reporter to be the better of the two. That Calvert trumpet sounds even better than Harry James' recording of the same song.

The two other new ballads are Mystery Street, recorded by almost anyone you like, and a new one, Answer Me, My Love, waxed first by Frankie Laine and best by Nat Cole. This latter song I label as the Song to Watch, if only for lack of a better candidate.

The Crazy Mixed-up Record of the Month is, of course, Stan Freberg's C'est Si Bon. Master Freberg, who has a cotton-pickin' fight with his cotton-pickin' accompanists, lets his lovely voice range from a gurgling scream to a screaming gurgle at the end of this masterpiece. However, he's operating under a rather severe handicap: lack of talent.

The balance of the first vocals include a new record of Mama's Gone Goodbye, by Jimmy Palmer and his band and vocalists, and four or five versions of the oldie, Granada. The best of these would seem to be the Monte Kelly record, albeit there are no words in this recording. Also, the Four Aces' popularity with Heart of My Heart is being challenged by the Les Elgart job on the same number. Elgart's orchestra looks like one of the best aggregations.

Beauty

by Sharon Doran

• ALMOST everybody knows Lala Mathers. And in case you don't know this comely 19-year-old senior, she is a five foot seven inch brunette with blue eyes, and a peppy cheerleader. Lala is active in such groups as the Intersorority Athletic Board, Big Sis, Girls' Basketball team, Tournament chairman of ISC, a member of WRA, and belongs to Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. These are just a few!

Prefers Marriage

Lala is a chemistry major and is planning to take graduate work in order to become a bio-chemist. ("Really, I'd prefer to get married!") She has wanted to be a chemist ever since she was five years old. "I was so impressed with the big words," Lala was born in Birmingham, Alabama, and has lived in Mississippi and New Orleans, and definitely hopes the South will rise again.

Her favorite sports are swimming and basketball. During the summer, Lala is a playground director. "But if I could do what I really wanted," she says, "I'd just play basketball and badminton all the time!"

Here at school, Lala spends most of her time in the lab, "Or the Student Union." Her favorite pastimes include dancing. "I love to dance," says Lala, "especially the Tango, even though I don't do it very well."

Likes Food

"I am almost completely uncultured, but I like semi-classical music. All types of music." As for the food situation, "I love pizza and chocolate milk shakes. . . . No, I don't eat them together!"

Last, but not least, when asked about the male situation, Lala said, "Boys? Oh, DEFINITELY!" Truly a Buff Beauty, Lala Mathers is an asset to any campus.

'Creeping Conformity' Cripples Controversy

by Joan Drew

• "EDUCATION IS A PROCESS of deadening one end in order to liven up the other." (From the Cavalier Daily, University of Virginia.)

We had bowed to the decision of Public Opinion before this festive season caught up with us; young American minds are stagnant. So once more we plod, ever clod-like, onward through the gray apathy of our university life.

In Lapland forty German and twenty Danish students are busy digging gold to raise money for their national student unions. (They had no small difficulty finding a profitable spot to dig that had not previously been claimed.) There's ambition for you! What do we do? Sit in our luxurious, 4-story building on G Street and complain about the coffee.

Why, why, why are we so apathetic? (We are not advocating gold-digging in Lapland.)

Newsweek said it all started when the World War II vets came back to college. Their maturity and seriousness spread a clammy blanket over the old rah rah stuff. Hell week and hazing went down the drain. Instead of drinking to get drunk, students learned to slurp their alcohol to relieve tension and boredom.

As for students' indifference towards national and foreign affairs, some say that because of the enormous growth of our country, people feel too remote from it all. They feel they can't take an active part in it, so why bother to even think about it?

Even the mildest voices of liberalism, say others, have been intimidated into silence. Conformity pays these days.

A-bombs, H-bombs and G (for germ)-bombs threaten our existence, and, claims a fourth group, bring out ostrich-like tendencies. (Put your head in the sand and live on!)

Undeniably, a combination of mature veterans, investigations, the Cold War and H-bombs have had their share in contributing to our indifference.

Interest in academic subjects these days isn't much stronger than it is in anything else. The Daily Reveille, Louisiana State University, tells a little father-son story:

"My son, now that you are home from college, tell me of all the wonderful things you have learned. I want to hear all about it, because I never had a chance to get a college education."

"My father, I learned nothing."

"What is this, son? You learned nothing. How can that be? You were there four years. You must have learned something."

"Well, I'll tell you how it was, dad. When I did make it to classes, I slept. I never bought a textbook, much less read one. In fact, I never read anything that had anything to do with college or courses. I never talked to anybody about anything; I just had a good time."

"But, son, you've got a degree. How did you manage that without learning anything?"

"It was easy, dad. I had a system. You see, I only scheduled courses giving objective tests."

"What's that, son?"

"Well, in objective tests, all you got to do is mark a 'T' or an 'F' in a blank, or circle a letter or number in what they call a multiple-choice question, or put a letter by a number in a matching question. That's all there is to it."

"But, son, you've got to know something to put the letters and numbers in the right place."

"No, dad, if you schedule the right courses, know how to make plus and minus marks, how to put a number or letter in a blank, and if you're really lucky, you can get a college degree."

"Then the degree doesn't mean much, does it, son?"

"No, sir, I guess it doesn't."

Robert M. Hutchins, in his new book, "University for Utopians," suggests the real reason for the apathy of American University students: There is a basic fault in our entire educational system, says he. Congressional committees emanate the criticism that the professors who do not "share the common opinion as the members of the committee interpret it are not qualified to teach." Unconsciously, Americans tend to adopt the custodial system of education. This shows the seriousness of our failure to develop an educational tradition . . .

Therefore: fear of controversy brings conformity. And conformity equals a stale mind—and too many stale minds . . .

We'll take a look at Mr. Hutchins' answer to the whole great big messy problem next time.

Foggy Bottom

by Hester Heale

• HAPPY NEW YEAR, and I hope everybody has decided just how many parties to go to this year, and that the Bricker Amendment will never do. As is to be expected, life marches on in fifty-four as well as in fifty-three.

Paulson Escapes; Wanted

The Houdini award of 1954 goes to David Paulson, pledge master of TEP, for his amazing adventure of last Friday night: The TEP pledge class decided to kidnap their master and take him for a ride. Five pledges lowered Dave into the front seat of the car. . . Somehow, Dave escaped, breaking away from seven more pledges stationed outside the car, and outran the pledge class for two blocks, finally reaching safety by tumbling down a flight of stairs into a printers' shop.

• LOVE: PIKA pledge Earl Eber-sole and ex-dream girl Ellie Wyvill, ADPI, are a new combination at Pike parties; ditto pledge Buz Ciriello and beauteous blond Martha Dodson, Chi pledge. . . Jim Cerda, USN, is home on leave, was entertaining Pike friends at Xmas parties with his piano magic.

• BIG QUESTION from Pike house: Where is Sugar Ray's frat pin?

Phi Sigs Make Merry

The Phi Sigma Kappas held their annual Xmas ball during the holidays. Among the merry-makers at this well-attended Yule romp was Joan Brownell, daughter of the Attorney General, escorted by Bill Meade. Also in attendance were Phi Sigs from U; Va. and Md. U. Highlight of the evening was the crowning of KD Joanne Showalter as new Moonlight girl, by prexy Tom Brown, with past moonlight girl Ann Smith assisting. Joanne is engaged to Gus Watson, past Phi Sig prexy, who is presently with the Marine Corps.

The Phi Sig-DG exchange last Friday took a turn for the livelier when three DG's who shall be nameless started flinging off their clothes. But pax vobiscum: it was all part of the skit, in which the talented girls sang that little-known number from "Guys and Dolls," "Take Back Your Mink." The bunny hop was led with rare joie-de-vivre by Ed Turco.

• CHEZ SIGMA NU: We hear that Tony Shupe and Karan Wray are engaged. . . the happy couple celebrated the event in and around New York City during the holidays.

The Sigma Nu's led off the holidays a-wassailing in Georgetown. For those who are not up on their olde English lore, it's an adult form of trick or treat, with mulled ale being the reward, instead of Hershey bars, for the melodious good tidings of great joy. The brothers ushered in the New Year with the proverbial bang, with Bob van Horn and Joe Gould, now with the military, very much present.

Fanfan Farce Outroques Them All In Ludicrous, Hilarious Comedy

• ONLY THE FRENCH, with their inimitable Gallic temperament, could have produced Fanfan the Tulip, a parody in French on swashbuckling films, Fanfan out-swashbuckles all its predecessors.

The film has all the characteristics of the usual American thriller: most situations are heightened and carried to extremes so that the sublime soon becomes the ridiculous.

The story is set in the reign of Louis XV, who derived much pleasure from planning and executing little wars. By doing this, he achieved two things: enjoyment and decreased number of fighting men. In order to compensate for losses, men were sent into small towns and villages for recruits. At this point our hero, Fanfan, enters.

He is a roguish lover, adroitly played by Gerard Philipe, who, in his flight from marriage, is duped into joining the army by the femme fatale, Adeline.

Adeline, played by Gina Lollobrigida, prophesies that Fanfan will marry the King's daughter. Several duels, hangings, and full-scale battles later, Fanfan finds his true love and "lives happily ever after."

The plot itself is not as important as is the degree of each ridiculous episode. The movie is so thoroughly extreme that no one can hold back laughter.

If you haven't seen this Christian-Jacque production, do so. You will be provided with a hilarious evening and entertainment. W. E.

31,000 ACTUAL STUDENT INTERVIEWS SHOW COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER LUCKIES TO ALL OTHER BRANDS!

Latest extensive nationwide survey, supervised by college professors, proves Luckies lead again!

In 1952, a survey of colleges throughout the country showed that smokers in those colleges preferred Luckies to any other cigarette. In 1953, another far more extensive and comprehensive survey—supervised by college professors and based on more than 31,000 actual student interviews—once again proved Luckies' overwhelming popularity. Yes, Luckies lead again over all other brands, regular or king size...and by a wide margin! The number-one reason: Luckies' better taste!

GW Bids For High National Rating

Down Alden's Beat

Karver, The Driver, Impresses Wilkinson

• CORKY DEVLIN, A BASKETBALL PLAYER for George Washington, was chatting with this reporter before an empty arena after GW had played Virginia in the Capital Invitational Tournament.

Corky, as he usually does, had several things to say, but first and most emphatically, he said, "What a job Elliott did on Wilkinson."

Karver was playing the same sort of game he had been playing for three seasons... driving, driving, driving, whether he was guarding an opponent or moving in for a basket. The only difference was that his play was much smoother this season than it had been the previous two.

BOB ALDEN

And just as Karver was consistently aggressive in his play, he was consistently underrated and unnoticed by most people.

Devlin, some of the other players. Coach Reinhart and a few others noticed what Karver did to Buzzy Wilkinson, Virginia's high scorer, and consequently to the whole team.

Yes, Karver is the defensive master of the Colonials, a mantle he assumed officially when Ken Hirschfeld had to retire early last season with a stomach ailment. But a mantle which was always his when he was in control of his fiery temper.

Now don't get me wrong, Karver is not necessarily temperamental—he merely plays hard and for keeps. And packing 195 pounds on his 6:02 frame enables him to jar into a few more opponents than perhaps the average basketball skeleton.

Though Elliott did hold Wilkinson to 15 points (causing the Virginia flash to miss more than his usual share of shots—17 of 22), and he himself scored 20 (nine baskets in 12 attempts—a phenomenal percentage) he went unrecognized when the trophy was awarded for the outstanding player in the Capital tourney.

Elliott, realizing of course that trophies and polls and awards are not the significant things in life, was not unhappy about this situation, especially when the trophy went to a teammate named Devlin, who had done a pretty good job of playing basketball too.

The Bronx Bull (he's a graduate of James Monroe High in the Bronx, and he sometimes ambles on the floor like a ferocious bull) feels that he was lucky to have Mr. 30-point-a-game Wilkinson score only 15 off him, for "though a good defensive job is managed against a top player like Wilkinson, the good scorer is still going to get his points."

The defensive man may do a good job on the big scorer, and the scorer may still hit his usual prolific total, but he may hurt his team by the shots he takes or the time he takes to get his points. The man on defense is just lucky when his man has an off day and doesn't score much, he can get the recognition that may have been due him for other less noticeable performances."

Rudin's Ramblings

• "WILL THE BUFF BEAT Kentucky?" "How will the Colonials do against Duquesne?" These are two questions that are heard all over "G" Street these days. Yet, we feel all this talk is highly premature. After all, it's only mid-January, and the season has a long way to run.

Despite the fact the Buff are highly favored to win the Southern Conference crown and go to the NCAA playoffs, let's not forget what happened last year. An attack of flu in late season, plus some bad luck, kept the Colonials from even reaching the Conference playoffs.

So, let's worry about winning tonight's game in Lexington and Friday's tilt with Maryland before we envision any contest with the lads from the Blue Grass state or the Dukes from Pittsburgh.

JIM RUDIN

• TAKING EVERYTHING into consideration, last month's first Capital Invitational Tourney was a success. It must be admitted that VPI was not a crowd pleaser and that Virginia and Richmond are regular season foes. All of this helped to take the edge off the two night affairs.

We sincerely believe that the Tournament could be vastly improved next year by the addition of four more teams, thus making it an eight club affair. A step in the right direction has been taken and things can only get better.

Buff Play Maryland Friday, VMI Tonight

by Bob Alden

• ARMED WITH ONE of the most devastating offenses in college basketball today, George Washington University plays Maryland and two other opponents this week as it bids for high national rating.

The Colonials, ranked twelfth last week by the Associated Press poll of sports writers and radio broadcasters, should break into the top ten in the poll released today.

Coach Bill Reinhart's team plays Maryland at Richie Coliseum Friday, and Virginia Military Institute tonight at Lexington, Va. GW played Washington and Lee last night at Lexington.

Possessing the number one offensive team in the nation, according to latest NCAA official statistics, and the most accurate field goal shooting team in the country, GW has waltzed by nine opponents.

The Colonials defeated: West Virginia (106-75), Richmond (81-67), Virginia Tech (65-53), Virginia (97-72), Richmond (81-67), Clemson (95-55), Georgetown (88-64), and Virginia Tech (73-40).

Paced in scoring by Corky Devlin, Joe Holup and Elliott Karver, the Colonials have averaged 86.5 points per game. But far more impressive than their point totals have been the shooting percentages of Devlin, Holup and Karver.

Three Top Marksmen
Devlin, 6:05 guard from Newark, N. J., has scored 199 points in 9 games for a 22.1 average. Devlin, also a good ball handler and passer, has connected on 51.6% of his field goal attempts and 89.2% of his free throw attempts.

But Corky is not GW's most accurate scorer. Elliott Karver, with a 55.6%, is the second best marksman in the nation, and Joe Holup is also in the country's top ten with a 53.8%.

As a team the Colonials have connected on 47.8% of their field goal attempts to lead the nation.

The record, set last year by Furman is 44.4%.

In free throws, George Washington has made 73.7% of its attempts to rank in the first five in the country. GW won the free throw accuracy championship last year with a 72.1 mark.

Klein Helps Colonials
The Colonials began recording these brilliant offensive and accuracy marks last year, and though the improvement upon last year's accuracy marks have been perhaps the number one difference between the two ball clubs, there are some other important factors in GW's undefeated record.

The addition of sophomore George Klein, a 5:10 play-making guard, and the pairing of Klein with Devlin as back-court men have vastly improved the floor generalship of the Colonials.

The improvement of Joe Holup in the center position has strengthened GW under the backboards. Joe was one of the top rebounders in the land last year, but he has been pulling down more while playing considerably less this season.

The alert and tenacious defensive play of Karver and Klein make the Colonials an even more dangerous ball club.

The development of Joe Petcavich into a good center enables Reinhart to rest or alternate Joe Holup. The presence of players like sophomores Frank Morrison and Jay Manning is (or should be) enough to keep forwards Karver and John Holup on their toes. And Reinhart still has his two top spot players of a year ago, Buzz Ciriello and Ed Catino.

How the stars got started...

Eddie Sauter and Bill Finegan, leaders of America's most excitingly different dance band, met in 1939 as struggling young arrangers. Ed had studied trumpet and drum at college, worked up to arranging for "name" bands; Bill had studied in Paris, won a spot with Tommy Dorsey. After 13 years of pooling new ideas, they formed their own band. It clicked!

Eddie Sauter says:
"I'VE TRIED MANY BRANDS, BUT I GET MOST PLEASURE FROM CAMELS. YOU WILL, TOO!"

Bill Finegan says:
"WITH ME, CAMELS CLICKED INSTANTLY. THE FLAVOR'S HOW I LIKE IT, THE MILDNESS JUST RIGHT."
